

Truman Host To Stalin At Luncheon In "White House"

Potsdam, July 17 (AP)—Premier Stalin conferred with President Truman at the little white house today in company with their ranking foreign affairs officials a few hours before the world-shaping Big Three conference was scheduled to start.

The Generalissimo, attired as a marshal of the Soviet Union, was accompanied by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. They were guests at luncheon of the President and Secretary of State James P. Byrnes. The party talked for an hour.

The atmosphere of secrecy surrounding the delayed start of the conference with Prime Minister Churchill was heightened during the murky, cloudy morning by three mysterious explosions in the Russian zone of Berlin.

In Potsdam 2 Days
The two Soviet leaders arrived in Potsdam two days ago, it was disclosed. There was no explanation, however, why the opening of the conference had been delayed yesterday.

The Russians appeared at Mr. Truman's residence at 11:50 a. m. with their official interpreter, V. N. Pavlov, and were greeted by the President's military and naval aides and then by Mr. Truman and his secretary of state in their offices on the second floor.

Charles E. Bohlen of the State Department was the American interpreter. Pavlov has accompanied Stalin to all the previous Big Three meetings. The six were together for an hour before going to lunch.

Mr. Truman wore a brown business suit and sat at the head of the table. The Generalissimo's uniform was fawn-colored with silver-edged stars on the epaulets. He sat on the President's right.

Yankee Menu
Pavlov and Molotov sat to Stalin's right in that order, while Byrnes, Bohlen and Admiral William D. Leahy, Mr. Truman's personal chief of staff, were at the President's left in that order.

Mr. Truman had seen Prime Minister Churchill informally yesterday when the British leader called to pay his respects.

The luncheon was concluded at 2:45 p. m. The menu included creamed spinach, fried flounder and bacon, smothered with onions, baked ham, julienne potatoes, string beans, pumpernickel bread, jam, sliced fruit, cookies, mint, candies and cigars.

Truman directed Vice-Adm. Emory S. Land, chief of the U. S. Maritime commission, to proceed to Germany as soon as possible, indicating that post-war world shipping and utilization of the United States' greatest merchant fleet in history would play a part in the discussions.

Face Many Problems
Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the U. S. Army Air Forces, are now on the conference scene.

The President's call for Adm. Land came as no surprise. In pre-conference discussions with his staff before he left Washington Truman decided to direct the top shipping official to stand by and be prepared to join the Big Three parley. Land attended the Roosevelt-Churchill Quebec discussions and furnished advice at later Big Three meetings.

The parley agenda will cover a world-wide range of subjects, including territorial disputes, occupation, rehabilitation and stabilization.

Adm. William D. Leahy, Truman's personal chief of staff, and the joint chiefs of staff are on hand for advice on purely military problems such as continuation of the war against Japan.

Reds In War?
American and British newspapers which reached here predicted that the question of Russian participation in the Pacific war would be a likely question for discussion. They also forecast that the three Allied leaders would take up the problem.

MISS K. OLLER SELECTED NEW CO. LIBRARIAN

Miss Kathryn Oller, librarian for the Hunt, don county library for the last three years, was selected as the first librarian for the Adams County Free Library at a joint meeting Monday evening of the library association directors, a special committee on a librarian and the county commissioners.

Miss Oller, who is specially trained in library work and has engaged in county library work since 1940, will take up her duties here October 1 at a salary of $2,000 per year.

Her election followed the submission of a two-page report by the library committee in which Miss Oller's selection was recommended. The committee said it was "impressed by Miss Oller's understanding of the needs of a county library in its initial stages, her years of experience in county library work so similar in set-up to that in Adams county, her apparent organizational ability, her energy, initiative and public spirited attitude."

Miss Oller was recommended after the committee had consulted state and national library sources for applicants. Eight were considered for the position, the committee reported.

Graduate of Juniata
Miss Oller is a graduate of Waynesboro high school in the class of 1934 and received the degree of bachelor of arts from Juniata college in 1938. The following year she was awarded the degree of bachelor of science in library science by the Drexel Institute Library school and in 1940 went to Huntingdon county as assistant librarian. She also was employed by Juniata college as cataloger in the college library and was made head of the accession department there. She was promoted to the position of Huntingdon county librarian in 1942. She is a member of both state and national library associations and is chairman of the county library section of the Pennsylvania Librarians' association and serves on its directory committee.

The new librarian will be in Adams county August 8 and 9 to meet with the library and property committees to help prepare for library service here, plan for the purchase of supplies and attend to other matters preliminary to the beginning of library service now.

Membership Grows
At Monday evening's meeting, O. H. Benson, chairman of the board, announced that the membership drive which already has passed the initial goal of 3,000 has enrolled men, women and children in every borough and township in the county and that the memberships continue to come in.

Mr. Benson reported on progress with library work in New Oxford, Abbottstown and York Springs where branch libraries are being planned. It was announced that the New Oxford borough council has promised to make provision for a library reading room there and has allotted an additional $250 for library purposes in that borough.

The board chairman spoke of the need for the establishment of a speaker's bureau to explain the library program to clubs and organizations throughout the county.

More Candidates Are Withdrawing
With next Tuesday set as the deadline for withdrawing from any nominations voted at the June primaries, countians continue to send notice that they are declining the opportunity of having their names appear on the ballots at the general election in November.

Withdrawals listed today at the commissioners' office included the following: Roy A. Mickley, nominated as Republican candidate for assessor in Franklin township; A. R. Delp, Democrat for justice of the peace in Huntingdon township; George Snysers, Democrat for judge of elections in Huntingdon township; Alvah L. Stonesifer, Democrat for tax collector in Hamilton township; and Henry S. Stover, Littlestown, Democrat for school director.

Expense Accounts Are Filed Today

Reports on campaign expenditures have been filed at the court house by three additional candidates who sought party nominations in the June primaries. Thursday is the end of the 30-day period for filing expense reports.

Each of these men certified they spent less than $100 in their campaigns: Robert F. Walter, Gettysburg, Democrat for county treasurer; Mervin I. Rice, Bendersville, for jury commissioner; and Edgar A. Wolfe, Littlestown, Democrat for jury commissioner.

Advertisers For Sugar

A much concerned housewife, alarmed over her sugar shortage has resorted to a novel, and usually fruitful, method to secure some sugar. She has turned to the Classified Columns of The Gettysburg Times in her effort to secure sufficient sugar to tide her over the current emergency. This is the advertisement she has inserted in today's Classified Column:

Would like to borrow 5 pounds of sugar. Will return when 37 stamp is valid or when canning sugar stamps are received.

CASE LOAD OF ASSISTANCE IN COUNTY LOWER

The case load of the Adams County Board of Public Assistance is only two more than a year ago Mrs. Donald Myers, executive director, told board of directors at their regular meeting Monday evening in the board's offices.

Mrs. Myers reported 461 old age cases; 79 pension for blind; 74 for aid to dependent children and 56 general assistance cases, a total of 670. Last year at this time there were 668.

It was also announced at Monday's meeting that the county Health Arts Advisory committee will, after August 1, under the new state medical program, be an advisory unit and not administrative as in the past. The board includes Dr. C. H. Johnson, chairman, for the medical practitioners, Dr. Walter Danforth for the dentists and Frank Britcher for the pharmacists.

Juvenile Cases
Mrs. Myers told the board that during a four months' period last year local doctors received 100 per cent payment for their services from the money allocated to the county for medical care and that this same provision would prevail under the new medical program.

The board also discussed a few assistance cases, generally called border-line cases in which the state provides that relatives, when financially able should contribute to the assistance of those needing aid. Board members also discussed juvenile cases.

Those present at the meeting included: M. Stuart Danner, president; J. Hays Beard, Harold Reuning, J. H. Weaver, of Littlestown; J. D. Miller, of Biglerville, and Mrs. Rasmus S. Saby.

The next meeting of the board will be held August 14.

SURVIVOR OF KAMIKAZE JAP ATTACK HOME

Seaman First Class Henry Weikert, New Oxford, was aboard the USS Drexler, a destroyer, when she was sunk by a Japanese kamikaze suicide plane off Okinawa May 28. At present he is spending a 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Weikert, in New Oxford.

Five planes came at the Drexler from the north, presumably from the Japanese homeland, according to Seaman Weikert. The guns from the destroyer hit two and one was knocked down by a Navy plane. Two got through.

When the first one hit, the explosion was light but it knocked out the Drexler's power so that the guns could not train and she lay dead in the water. Weikert, who is a radar operator, said that he came out on the bridge and saw the second one approaching. There was no possibility of escape, he said, but he returned to the radar room. The ship, its sides blown out, sank in 49 seconds after the second kamikaze plane hit. It struck with a tremendous explosion.

First Combat Mission
The order to abandon ship was given immediately and the crew took to the water. They were picked up later and sent back to the United States aboard a Navy transport. About 180 men, half of the ship's crew, perished in the sinking, the Navy said.

Upon expiration of his leave, Seaman Weikert will report to the Navy Yard at Philadelphia for reassignment.

He entered the service May 12, 1944, and trained at Camp Peary, Va., and the Navy Service School at Virginia Beach. He joined the Drexler at Norfolk, November 14, 1944, and sailed for the Pacific in February of this year. The Drexler, a new 2,200 ton destroyer of the Summers class, was sunk on her first combat mission.

COUNTIAN ASKS I.C.C. PERMIT TO OPERATE BUS

At an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing in Hagerstown on Saturday, Taneytown interests which previously had supported the Potomac Motor Lines application for a permit to operate bus service between Frederick and York, Pa., endorsed the application of Lester H. Prock, of Littlestown, Pa., trading as the Lincoln Bus Company.

An official of the Blue Ridge Rubber company and a Taneytown Chamber of Commerce representative admitted that they were not inclined to endorse a schedule that might encourage persons living along the proposed route to seek employment in Frederick.

The entire day was spent in taking testimony of interested persons. The testimony was not completed until 7 o'clock Saturday night.

Requests Reported
A number of ticket agents and bus dispatchers for the Blue Ridge Lines testified that they have had numerous requests for accommodations over the proposed route.

A hearing before the Public Service Commission on the application of the Potomac Motor Lines to operate bus service between Frederick and Taneytown is scheduled today in Baltimore. Residents of Woodsboro and Walkersville are planning to appear in favor of the proposed route.

Taneytown spokesmen at the Saturday hearing made it clear that they are opposed to operation of a bus route that might facilitate a drain on available labor sources in the Woodsboro, Taneytown and Littlestown areas.

Would Provide Service
Spokesmen for the Potomac Motor Lines said they proposed to provide service to workers and the general public in both directions. They have no interest in where the patrons work, it was pointed out. They feel that adequate service should be provided, permitting workers to make their own choice where they shall seek employment.

The Office of Defense Transportation has approved the Potomac Motor Lines proposed schedule as a home-to-work-schedule. Counsel for the Lincoln Bus Lines also represents the Woodsboro operator of a bus which daily hauls workers in that area to the Littlestown and Taneytown plants.

Guam, July 17 (AP)—A daring American naval task force steamed to within 80 miles of Tokyo tonight (Japan time) and bombed industrial targets around Hitachi on the heels of an eight-hour raid by 1,500 planes from American and British Carrier planes in the area of the Japanese capital. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced the bombardment while it was still under way.

Guam, July 17 (AP)—U. S. carrier aircraft knocked out 374 Japanese vessels and 129 locomotives last week-end, crippling transport in Northern Japan, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today as 1,500 American and British carrier planes made the war's heaviest seaborne strike against Tokyo.

Today's unprecedented assault on the Tokyo area was part of a pre-invasion attack involving 2,000 or more Allied planes ranging from stubby little fighters to giant Superforts. Fighters and bombers from the world's greatest naval armada swept the Tokyo area for at least eight hours, and there was no word that the attack by Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey's forces had ended.

Combined British-American Assault

It was the first combined American-British operation against the Japanese homeland and the fourth carrier strike in eight days including the Saturday-Sunday attack on Northern Japan in coordination with naval bombardments which crippled the steel mill cities of Muroran and Kamaishi.

The week-end air-sea bombardment was the most damaging blow the fleet dealt the Japanese homeland.

Vice Adm. John S. McCain's carrier planes caught hundreds of ships and surface craft scurrying out of harbors like ants. But 374 didn't get away.

As a result reliable estimates placed Nippon's remaining usable shipping at less than 2,000,000 tons. The enemy's always inadequate rail transport was dealt an equally heavy blow.

The revised toll of carrier damage last Saturday and Sunday included:

Sunk—140 ships and surface craft, totaling 71,000 tons and including nine small warships.

Ten Warships Damaged

Damaged—234 vessels, totaling 88,000 tons, and including ten warcraft.

Eighty-four locomotives were destroyed, 45 damaged. Military installations, ammunition dumps, air fields, factories, and transportation facilities were wrecked on Northern Honshu, main island of Japan, and Hokkaido, northernmost island of Nippon to which Japanese have been fleeing from Superfortress raids.

Thirty-seven Japanese planes were destroyed and 45 damaged. This is ten lower than the previously announced total, but an increase of eight in the number destroyed.

This record damage inflicted despite "extremely adverse" weather such as has harried almost every American carrier attack on Japan cost the attacking forces 16 airmen and 24 planes. No U. S. ships were lost.

The tabulation of Japanese shipping losses in the two days showed:

Sunk—An old destroyer, two destroyer escorts, two patrol craft, four picket craft, 25 cargo ships, six train ferries, one oiler, three trugs, 59 luggers and 37 other craft.

Pound Tokyo Airdromes

Damaged—Seven destroyer escorts or gunboats, three patrol craft, one transport, 34 cargo ships, nine oilers, three train ferries, one LST (landing ship, tanks), one tug, one trawler, one dredge and barge, 86 luggers and 87 smaller craft.

Returning to the attack today, the same carrier airmen combined for the first time with British flattop forces to hammer Tokyo and its surrounding network of airdromes for the second time in a week.

For at least eight hours they swarmed through a thick haze to bomb, rocket and strafe pinpoint targets around the heart of the Mikado's empire.

(Tokyo said they raided airdromes and military installations in six prefectures for five hours. Neither Tokyo radio nor Pacific Fleet Headquarters made it clear whether the attacks continued throughout the day.)

No Sign of Jap Resistance

American and British Pacific Fleets, forming the mightiest carrier task force ever assembled, cruised perhaps 200 miles offshore as waves of fighters, dive bombers and torpedo planes swept off flattop decks for at least eight hours.

They roared in over a 35-mile stretch of coastline approximately 50 miles east and north of the Japanese capital. Eight hours after the attack started in the murky dawn there was no word of Japanese retaliation, Associated Press Correspondent James Lindsley reported from the scene.

With approximately 500 Superforts lashing at four industrial and transportation centers, at least 2,000 planes were hurled against Japan in today's pre-invasion attack. (The total will probably mount well above 2,000 when reports from Iwo Jima and Okinawa based fighters and bombers come in. They have been flying around 250 sorties daily against the enemy homeland.)

WORLD PEACE HINGES UPON BIG 3 UNITY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

We keep repeating (and with sound reason) the truism that world peace depends on the unity of the Big Three, but when there arises any question of just what might cause a rupture of good relations we are inclined to take cover in order to evade a delicate subject.

We come naturally by this caution. It's a heritage from the European war—the idea of avoiding the discussion of controversial matters which might make hard feelings among the Allies in the midst of a life or death struggle. However, the Hitlerian war is finished (we hope) and we have arrived at a time when frank exchange of views is all to the good, especially since each of the Big Three is anxious to preserve unity. So what are the tender spots?

To begin with there's a completely new and bewildering alignment of power on the continent of Europe. Russia has emerged as the dominant force. Her dominance is due partly to her own vast strength and partly to the fact that two great powers, Germany and Italy, have been rendered impotent. This means that the European spheres of influence have shifted, for the world is divided into zones of influence—like it or not.

Must Give and Take

Well now, this shift has brought an interlocking of the British and Russian spheres of influence in some places, and might easily affect others. There then is one of the danger spots, for it's easy to see that deliberate pushing by either nation might give rise to serious difficulties between them. It's a situation which will call for much give and take.

Closely identified with this are the self-determination and sovereignty of small nations to which all the Big Three subscribe. Impingement on these cardinal rights could cause a break among the trio. But here enters a new and delicate element, and this is that great powers will insist that neighboring small nations be friendly. The outstanding example of this so far has been Poland, though there are others and there will be more.

This desire of a major power to make sure that good relations with its neighbors are air-tight is generally conceded as justifiable. However, it's easy enough to see that a case might arise in which the sovereignty of a small country would be impaired by some great power in order to bring the former into line.

Tread Cautiously

As remarked in yesterday's column, continuation of confidence among the Big Three depends on dissipation of any suspicions they may have of one another's intentions. Western Europe long has had pronounced suspicions that Moscow was bent on spreading Communism throughout the continent—throughout the world for that matter. This suspicion hasn't been dissipated and probably won't be until Russia's actions have made her intentions clear.

Give us 12 months of good going and any suspicions which may exist will be removed. Meantime the Big Three have to keep well in mind that the portion of Europe over which the Hitlerian war was fought is full of political mines, and booby-traps, and that one must tread circumspectly.

Passenger Liner Burns At Dock

Sarnia, Ont., July 17 (AP)—The 360-foot Great Lakes passenger liner Hamonic, carrying 255 passengers, was destroyed by fire today with many persons injured and burned, but a clerk at the Canada steamship lines said "as far as we know no lives have been lost."

The clerk, J. H. Aitchison, said it was believed all aboard scrambled to safety after fire that broke out in the 1,000-foot long freight docks at Point Edward spread to the vessel. The docks were leveled.

American and Canadian fire fighters joined forces to combat the flames on the ship and ashore.

The Hamonic, one of the largest passenger ships on the lakes, had left Detroit last night on a cruise and was tied up at Point Edward, near the blue water bridge. The bridge spans the St. Clair river at the southernmost tip of Lake Huron, connecting Port Huron on the American side and the Canadian cities of Sarnia and Point Edward.

Coal Car Sideswipes Pennsy Passenger

Philadelphia, July 17 (AP)—A bulged coal car sideswiped a Pittsburgh-Philadelphia mail and passenger train near Coatesville, Pa., early today, breaking windows and injuring several persons.

A Pennsylvania railroad conductor said the eastbound train had just left Coatesville and was passing a freight when the two trains scraped, showering passengers, mostly servicemen and women, with glass. Several persons suffered minor lacerations.

Trainmen said the accident ripped one of the motors from the electric locomotive and damaged all of the 17 mail and passenger coaches. On one side of the train, all windows were broken, trainmen said.

Names Board For Stream Pollution

Harrisburg, Pa., July 17 (AP)—Moves are under way for Pennsylvania in cooperation with neighboring states to correct and control pollution in the Potomac and Delaware river basins.

Governor Martin yesterday appointed the Keystone state's members on the interstate commission for the Potomac river basin. At the same time, a four-state compact for the Delaware river watershed became effective.

Enabling legislation to permit the commonwealth to join with other states in controlling pollution on both streams was passed by the 1945 Legislature. Pennsylvania was last to act on the Delaware compact. New York, New Jersey and Delaware having ratified it several years ago.

Pennsylvanians named to the Potomac commission were House Speaker Ira T. Fiss, Shamokin Dam, representing the general assembly; Floyd Chalfant, Waynesboro, state secretary of Commerce, representing the Pennsylvania commission on interstate cooperation; and James A. Kell, secretary of Forests and Waters, representing the state sanitary water board.

FIRST OF SERIES OF ARTICLES ON BRETTON WOODS

(Editor's note: This is the first of three stories explaining what the Bretton Woods agreements are—the International Fund and the International Bank—and how they work.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The Senate is debating the Bretton Woods agreement to set up an international bank and fund.

Their twin purpose is to prevent postwar cut-throat financial competition and to help nations get on their economic feet.

After the debate, which will last a few days, the Senate is expected to okay the agreements.

This will be the final touch—because the House already has approved—except for the signature of President Truman.

But before going into an explanation of the fund and the bank, which will be outlined in two more stories, here's the background.

After the last war there was little attempt to set world currency systems on an even keel.

Economic Warfare

As Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.) says, "The decade of the 1930's witnessed the development of economic warfare in its most destructive form."

Take Germany as an example, an example used by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau:

Germany agreed with some Balkan countries in 1932, when markets were scarce, to buy most of their wheat and raw materials at good prices in German marks. But the Balkan merchant who sold the stuff to Germany did not get paid in those marks.

These marks were paid to the Reichsbank (the German bank), not to the Balkan merchant. The Balkan countries then had to buy goods in Germany to get the value of those marks.

In order to get some of their money value back they had to buy—not what they actually wanted but what Germany wanted to get rid of—such as harmonicas and aspirin.

The War and Chaos

In this way Germany tied the economy of neighboring countries to the German war machine.

You can multiply this example many times. It became a great tangle. This nation trading with that nation because of some special arrangement and not trading with another nation because the special arrangement was lacking.

The war came. The nations realized that this sort of economic chaos should be avoided in the future, that nations should try to work together.

So in 1941 Secretary Morgenthau asked his Treasury staff to study the international monetary and investment problems that would be faced after the war.

Dr. Harry D. White, a Treasury expert, prepared a plan for an international fund to stabilize world monetary exchange and an investment bank to help nations in the problem of postwar reconstruction.

Other United Nations were told of these plans in 1942. They were asked to send experts to Washington to discuss the plans and the future problems. Consultations began in 1943 with the foreign experts.

American, British and Russian financial experts met in special conferences. They found plenty of ground upon which they could agree.

Finally, in May, 1944, President Roosevelt issued invitations to the then 44 nations and associated nations to meet in a New Hampshire summer resort, called Bretton Woods, in July, 1944.

They came up with a two-fold plan called: The International Monetary Fund and The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

(Tomorrow: The fund and how it works.)

Soldier Given 6 Years For Death

Williamsport, Pa., July 17 (AP)—Convicted of manslaughter in the hitch-hike death of Vincent Nowakowski, 51, Blossburg farmer, Army Pvt. James E. Buckley was sentenced to serve six years in Lycoming county jail and fined $500.

Judge D. M. Larabee imposed the sentence yesterday after Buckley's attorneys withdrew a motion for a new trial. He directed the jail term date from September 9, 1944, the date Buckley was returned here from Marshall, Ill., where he was arrested last September 2.

At Buckley's trial last March, Assistant District Attorney Clyde E. Carpenter charged that Nowakowski's death last August on Jack's Hollow mountain, after the farmer gave the soldier a ride in his automobile, was "deliberate and premeditated murder in committing a robbery."

Buckley claimed self-defense, testifying that Nowakowski made improper advances to him and that there was a struggle.

MAN BURNED

Pittsburgh, July 17 (AP)—Burns suffered when a spark from a match ignited his pajamas caused the death of Howard A. Vilsack, 45, of Homewood, the coroner's office reported.

Travel Ban Cuts Passenger Roster

Pittsburgh, July 17 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad said that the Pittsburgher, formerly a nine-car all-bedroom special, now a deluxe day coach train, brought only 66 passengers from New York yesterday, as compared with a normal load of 135 to 190.

It was the first day of the ODT's 450-mile Pullman ban.

"I don't believe there was a regular Pullman rider on the train," said Conductor E. C. Stephens. "They are not going to sit up all night. They'll do business by wire from now on."

BOMBARDMENT OF JAP ISLES "PREINVASION MOVE: NIMITZ"

By LEIF ERICKSON

Guam, July 17 (AP)—Current fleet bombardment of the Japanese homeland is the "preinvasion stage" of the war, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz stated today, while in Washington Vice Adm. Daniel Barbey warned bluntly that invasion of either Japan or China may not wait until the end of the typhoon season.

Radio Tokyo, not to be outdone in the broadcasting of invasion warnings, predicted early landings on Japan and declared:

Two Strategies

Nimitz, broadcasting to the United States just 45 minutes after flashing the announcement that the combined U. S. and British Pacific fleets were making "the most powerful" carrier plane attacks of the war on the Tokyo area, said:

"The 16-inch guns of our battle-ships, opening fire on industrial targets on Honshu and Hokkaido (Saturday and Sunday), also opened an era in which we dominate the Pacific approaches to Japan, and when necessary the air above Japan."

"At this—the preinvasion stage—we rely upon two principal strategies to further our aim: First, an ever-tightening blockade of Japan's home islands; second, destruction by shelling and bombing of every industry and resource which contributes to Japan's ability to make war."

"Big Wind Not Enough" Barbey, commander of the Seventh Amphibious force which landed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops on many southwest Pacific islands and the Philippines, in an NBC radio interview, said weather is an important invasion factor but "it will take more than a big wind to stop us."

The typhoon season virtually ends in October, but rough weather may be expected throughout the winter in the western Pacific. However, two typhoons within the past six months failed to stop U. S. Pacific fleet actions.

Barbey said landings might be made in either Japan or China and that 30 to 90 days would be required for preparations, depending upon the size of the invasion force.

HAS PLAN FOR CONVERSION OF STATE COLLEGES

Harrisburg, July 17 (AP)—George F. Hellick, of Easton, a Pennsylvania State College trustee, claims at least six of the Commonwealth's 14 state teachers colleges could be changed to schools for training master farmers and homemakers without creating a teacher shortage.

Hellick made his assertion yesterday in an open letter to Hiram G. Andrews, Democratic House leader.

Andrews charged recently a drive to convert some of the colleges into something else "is merely a part of a continuing conspiracy" by friends of liberal arts colleges to destroy the schools.

The Penn State trustee said before the war there were 12,000 unemployed teachers in Pennsylvania and "that is evidence we can easily transfer or change over some of these state teachers colleges for the uses stated and not be short of teachers."

Appeals to Churchmen "Some political leaders of both parties and industrialists," Hellick declared, "are side-stepping their duties to make truth for re-election and to confuse the public on this issue."

Hellick said "if he (Andrews) were fully familiar and sincere in his desire for full equality for youth in educational training for life's work, he would have responded to the call of churchmen of many denominations and aided them in transferring at least six of these state teachers colleges into master farmers and homemakers schools."

"Now is the time to arouse churchmen and the clergy, and make them fully conscious of their responsibility in aiding to take out of politics the training of our youth x x x so that Pennsylvania can again become a greater agricultural state and furnish us with our own butter, beef, eggs and increase the food production, which can be done by following the suggestions in agricultural educational training."

Anthracite Price Goes Up 15 Cents

New York, July 17 (AP)—Anthracite users will pay 15 cents a ton more for hard coal this year "to permit a more adequate return on coal dealers' investments," the Regional Office of Price Administration announced today.

The increase, the regional OPA explained, followed complaints by dealers that they were suffering a loss under present ceilings. The loss, dealers said, amounted to 16 cents a ton after all expenses.

The OPA listed the new prices for egg, stove and nut as $14.55 per ton; pea, $12.70; buckwheat, $10.70; rice, $9.55; and barley, $8.15. Dealers may allow a 15-cent a ton deduction for bills paid within 14 days, the OPA said.

MINING TONNAGE

Washington, July 17 (AP)—The U. S. Bureau of Mines reported today a total of 62,181,409 tons of anthracite mined in Pennsylvania, exclusive of Sullivan county, last year. The bureau said that while this marked the greatest tonnage ever produced in any single year since 1930, indications are that the 1945-46 supply will be 15 to 20 per cent below pre-war levels.

Lord Executive Fired By Navy

Eric, Pa., July 17 (AP)—Lt. Com. N. H. Collisson, executive officer in charge of Lord Manufacturing Co., an aircraft parts firm seized by the government, stated yesterday the Navy had terminated the services of Vice President Thomas Lord for his company.

Collisson said after the seizure of the plant in October, 1944, Lord's services "were continued as consultant to the Navy management" but Lord's "apparent indifference to the duties of this position finally required termination of his services."

"In March, 1945, a very important phase of work was outlined to Mr. Lord and the position of manager in charge of this work was offered him," Collisson said. "Until July 9, 1945, in spite of repeated urging, Mr. Lord refused to either accept or reject this position which together with his failure to perform his duties as a consultant made it necessary to terminate his services."

SERVING NEW ROLE ABROAD

With the 16th Armored Division in Europe, (By Mail)—Trained for a combat job as tank driver with C Company of the 26th Tank Battalion, 16th Armored Division, Sergeant Richard G. Beamer, former aircraft mechanic at the Glenn Martin plant in Baltimore, is now fast learning a new role in helping set up military government in Sudeten, Czechoslovakia.

Announcement of V-E Day found Sgt. Beamer's division in Pilsen, Czechoslovakia.

Since V-E, Sgt. Beamer's chief duties have been in helping to restore order and classify displaced persons in the German-inhabited Sudetenland. American military control of the area has involved the classification and transportation of former slave laborers and Allied liberated prisoners, and much of this type work still remains to be done.

Before the war, Beamer lived at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cluck, Aspers R. 1.

CHINESE TAKE MONCAY AFTER PUPPET REVOLT

Chungking, July 17 (AP)—Chinese forces have occupied Moncay, in the northeastern corner of French Indochina, the Chinese High Command announced today.

Moncay is on the Chinese-Indochina border near the gulf of Tonkin coast, 135 miles northeast of Hanoi, capital of Indochina, and 90 miles southwest of Yunging (Nanning) in China.

The high command said that Chinese forces occupied the town after a mutiny of puppet troops directly across the border in the Kwangtung province town of Tung Hing July 7. The puppet units surrendered to Chinese National forces with all their arms, the announcement said.

The Japanese at Tung Hing were forced to retreat across the border. Chinese forces pursued them into Indochina and occupied Moncay the same night, the high command said.

Seep Into Kweilin

Meanwhile, some 500 miles to the northeast, Chinese vanguards have infiltrated into the outskirts of Kweilin, former American Air base city 90 miles northeast of recently recaptured Luchow, the Chinese announced.

Other troops pushing up the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad from Luchow have advanced to within 40 miles of Kweilin, triple-airfield base abandoned last October by the U. S. 14th air force. This advance placed the Chinese moving along the railroad at a point within nine and one-half miles of Yungfu, which is 31 miles southwest of Kweilin.

Other Chinese forces drove a wedge into the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad between Kweilin and Chuanhsien, 67 miles northeast of Kweilin, thus cutting off enemy retreat from the former air base along the rail line which runs through Hengyang.

The high command also announced the recapture of Timpak, a coastal highway town on the South China Sea, 175 miles southwest of Canton. Capture of this town severed Japanese communications with Luchow peninsula and Hainan Island to the south, the Chinese said.

ORIENTAL POPPY
A flash of scarlet 'gainst the green
The oriental poppy throws,
As if 'twere meant to deck the scene
Before the coming of the rose.

Those days between the tulips gay
And summer's roses, white and red,
Would have small beauty to display
But for the poppy's crimson head.

It seems a herald sent before,
Without the blare of horn and drum,
To tell a doubting world once more
Of glorious things that are to come.

Today's Talk

THE UNKNOWN
The real source of all democracy is among the unknowns. The daily workers, in mines, on farms, in factories, in shops, on the road, in millions of offices, and upon ships that ply the seven seas. They form the heart of democracy.

Woodrow Wilson, in one of his inspired speeches, said this: "Democracy is the most difficult form of government, because it is the form under which you have to persuade the largest number of persons to do anything in particular."

For this reason we witness some amazing transformations in a national life under a democratic form of government. You see these silent thinking unknowns always have a voice of free expression—and they mould the thought of those in highest command, who really are but their servants to do their will. And it must not be forgotten that these very highest, in good time, come from the lowest, or the long unknowns! Witness the present President of the United States—a commoner from the fields of Missouri, called at a critical time, to serve these millions of unknowns, as well as to help shape the peace and stability of an entire world.

You see, therefore, how important it is that justice is forever administered to these unknowns, that they may have confidence and faith in those who administer the laws, and who lead in creating right purposes among all these who have given over their will to be carried out by those in high authority.

Another notable fact—all our great poetry, inspiring prose, every bit of our creative genius, whether in the field of the arts, sciences, or business, have their source among the unknowns—the people—the teeming millions. A living democracy is a working democracy. A thinking democracy. This is something that Hitler and his cohorts never got into their selfish and foolish heads.

Ideas, free thought, and character dominate the unknowns. Their potential power is beyond all dreams!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Strange Me."

Archbishop Seeks To Check Divorces

Canterbury, Eng., July 17 (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury urged Monday a nationwide network of public bureaus to help adjust marital troubles and check an increase in the divorce rate which he described as "a grave national problem."

In an address prepared for delivery at the Canterbury diocesan conference, the Archbishop urged mayors of every town in England to "take immediate steps" to establish such bureaus and declared that "public money should be available" to finance them.

He also demanded "ruthless" action by the government to provide adequate housing to help restore the stability of home life, which he said was essential to national well being.

Australia has about 3,000,000 square miles of land, and about 7,000,000 people.

A Fatal Fall: A distressing accident occurred Monday morning in Mountjoy township, one mile north of Two Taverns. S. W. Bercaw, who lives along the Baltimore pike, was preparing to build a new barn, and a dozen of his neighbors and friends had gathered there on Monday morning to help him tear down his old frame barn, preparatory to the raising of the new one. Among the neighbors was Squire I. N. D. Durbin. He was standing on the top of the roof stool and was helping to take down the purlin plate. In letting down the plate it may have jarred the cross tie on which the Squire stood or he may have been slightly struck by it, or he took a step backward, and he fell from his position to the ground a distance of sixteen feet. In his fall his head and feet were nearly together and he struck his head on one of the heavy joists.

He was quickly carried to the house by Josephus Mills and Mr. Bercaw and Dr. G. Noel, of Bonneauville, was hastily summoned. He never spoke after the accident, though he retained consciousness. He was carried to his home on a stretcher but died just as he reached there.

Mr. Durbin was born October 31, 1838. In 1864 he married Margaret E. Conover, to whom were born eight children. Squire Durbin was wounded at Charles City Cross Roads on June 30, 1862.

The Durbins have lived in Mountjoy since 1864, and have been identified with all that was right and good in its life.

QUESTION OF REAL COMPETITION IN GENERATION OF POWER IN COURT

Harrisburg, July 17 (AP)—A question whether Pennsylvania law permits the chartering of a rural electric cooperative to generate electric power in competition with private utilities is before the Dauphin county court.

The issue was raised by the Pennsylvania Electric Company, Johnstown, in an equity action asking the court to restrain Charles M. Morrison, Secretary of the Commonwealth, from issuing a certificate of incorporation to the Allegheny Electric Cooperative, Inc., of Parkersburg, Landing, Clarion county.

No hearing date has been set by the court in the case.

The utility contends the cooperative proposes to construct an electric generating plant and sell energy to seven western Pennsylvania cooperatives, listing them as:

"Unnecessary Duplication"

Construction of the plant, the company contends, "will unnecessarily and unwarrantedly duplicate the generating facilities and transmission lines of the plant" of Pennsylvania Electric and other private utility companies "to the detriment of consumers."

The action asserted the cooperative, before it can receive a state charter, must receive approval of the Public Utility Commission but the justice department insisted in an answer to the suit the commission "has no jurisdiction in the premises and cannot legally pass upon the application."

Application for a corporation certificate, filed under the 1937 Rural Electric Cooperative law, was received by the state department last April 3 but action on it was held up at first by a formal protest by Pennsylvania Electric and later by the court action.

The original application listed the cooperative's purpose as generation, manufacture, purchase and accumulation of electric energy for distribution to its members and listed as incorporators, Page D. Vandervort, Summerville; Grover C. Keith, Broad Top; J. A. Donaldson, Emmenton; Thomas E. Hood, New Florence; H. D. Stanbrook, Saegertown; D. P. Trickett, Columbus, and Leonard Naman, Marion Center.

A proposal to amend the 1937 Rural Electric Cooperative law to bring such organizations under Public Utility Commission jurisdiction died in the closing days of the 1945 legislature when the House refused to suspend its rules to permit action before final adjournment.

Watchman Braves Threats On Life

Pittsburgh, July 17 (AP)—Sixty-six-year-old John Guenther told Monday how two gunmen tortured him threatening to set him afire, unless he opened a safe at the plant where he is a watchman.

Guenther was doused with petrol, he said, but the thugs didn't ignite it because he told them: "If you light it, you'll blow up, too."

"I couldn't tell them how to open the safe," said Guenther. "I don't know the combination. They searched all the drawers for the combination but they didn't find it."

Brief Facts About Iris Growing

New roots of the common Flag or Bearded Iris may be planted at this time or old crowding clumps may be divided and replanted. Reasons for mid-summer planting and dividing are found in the fact that the entire plant becomes somewhat dormant within a month or six weeks after the flowering season and during this resting period new planting or moving causes little or no injury.

Irises do well in a rather wide range of soil types, providing in all cases the soil is well drained and mellow to a liberal depth. Of course, irises usually fall in shallow loams or soils lacking sufficient organic matter to hold moisture throughout the growing season. Full sunshine is beneficial to keep root rots reduced.

If the soil is fairly fertile, bone meal will serve as the chief source of added plant food, worked into the surface at least a week before planting time. However, experienced growers believe acid phosphate in the fertilizer mixture imparts a certain immunity from or power to resist root rots. Therefore, it may prove wise to apply a complete fertilizer when preparing the soil, one high in acid phosphate content and then side dress the plants with bone meal early the following spring after planting or moving.

Leaf Spot, Soft Rot

One of the chief dangers to summer planted irises is dry weather. Thus, growers should watch their new plants carefully and soak the ground to a depth of at least 4 to 6 inches once a week in dry or droughty periods. Of course, adequate irrigation does not imply sprinkling, as this practice may actually prove injurious. Soaking the soil is recommended.

Leaf spot is carried from year to year in old foliage and other debris left on the bed over winter. Spraying or dusting with fungicides is useless to control leaf spot. However, careful sanitation, consisting of gathering and burning all iris refuse before winter, pays big dividends in iris health. The same precautions reduce iris stalk borers because these pests live over winter in eggs fastened to old leaves.

Soft rot is more severe where the soil is acid. Hence lime should be applied when preparing sites for this flower in all cases where there is danger of acidity.

Lice Troublesome

Rot fungi often enter iris roots and crowns through wounds made by the stalk borer and rots are more dangerous where drainage is poor. This reveals a cycle of evils and benefits—Poor drainage usually accompanies acidity; acidity increases soft rot; rot is more severe where stalk borers exist; borers favor weakly, unthrifty plants. Therefore, growers should choose a location in full sun, keep the soil alkaline, practice care-sanitation to reduce borers and fungous diseases and otherwise endeavor to promote vigorous growth of their plants.

In the last few years plant lice have become more and more troublesome on irises, especially where birds have become scarce. Prompt spraying with nicotine sulphate in soap water is the only practicable method of control, and emphasis should always be placed on the necessity of employing this treatment as soon as the first aphids appear.

Beginners or experienced growers with iris problems are invited to write the editor to ask all the questions necessary to clear up doubtful points in the culture of this fine ornamental.

FOOD SHORTAGE WILL CONTINUE

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Americans can expect food shortages for many months to come.

So saying in a "Frank report" last night, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson added:

"We are likely to dine on more simple fare, minus the choice roasts the thick juicy steaks, and much of the sweetening of pre-war years."

Anderson gave this picture in a radio talk in which he said his first examination of the situation since entering the cabinet July 1 convinced him that little or any improvement could be obtained before next year's production season. He assured consumers, however, that his department is taking "positive steps" to increase production.

While waiting for greater production, Anderson said his department will try to obtain better distribution of available supplies by "choking off" black markets and by paring military, other government and foreign relief demands to minimum requirements.

He said the department also will seek supplementary production and supplies in other parts of the world, particularly South America.

Study Community Aid On Airports

Harrisburg, July 17 (AP)—Methods of aiding local communities plan development of airport programs came before the State Aeronautics Commission today.

Floyd Chalfant, Secretary of Commerce and chairman of the commission, said many inquiries have come to the agency concerning aid in connection with $2,725,000 appropriated to the commission for start of an air field development program in which the state and municipalities will share fifty-fifty.

"We want to prepare the proper forms on which applications can be made," explained Chalfant.

3,000 Workers Idle In Pittsburgh Area

Pittsburgh, July 17 (AP)—More than 3,000 persons were idle in four work stoppages in the Pittsburgh area today. Affected were a distillery, a meat packing company and two coal mines.

Biggest walkout was at Schenley, where 2,200 whiskey makers employed by Joseph S. Finch & Co. stayed away from their jobs because of a collapse in wage negotiations. George Tantlinger, secretary of the United Distillers Workers Local 3, said the union sought an 18-cent hourly increase while the company offered five cents. Base wages at the plant, he said, were 67 cents for women, 82 cents for men.

Some 350 workers at the Fried & Reineman Packing Co. in Pittsburgh were idle on a protest of AFL-Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher workmen that the company refused to submit working issues to the War Labor Board. The issues included allowances for clothing and other concessions.

SENATORS SEE CHARTER OKAY

Washington, July 17 (AP)—Two Republican senators predicted today that Congress will authorize the President to exercise peace-keeping police powers at his discretion.

This would settle the controversy over authority to be granted the American representative on the proposed World Security Council of the United Nations.

Senators Vandenberg, of Michigan, and Millikin, of Colorado, said in separate interviews they believe the Foreign Relations committee pointed the way toward a solution of this issue in its formal report recommending ratification of the United Nations Charter.

The committee report declared that any attempt to require advance Congressional approval in each instance before American troops could be used at the direction of the council would "violate the spirit" of the Charter. Such a proposal may be made by Senator Bushfield, (R-S.D.), and others when subsequent enabling legislation is considered.

Agreeing with the committee view, Vandenberg said he interpreted this to mean the President could instruct the American delegate to vote for or against the use of force—including U. S. divisions—where the only question involved was one of a policing nature. He suggested that as an added precaution, the President might be required to report to Congress the decision he had made.

JOHN W. SNYDER IS CHOSEN TO SUCCEED VINSON

Washington, July 17 (AP)—John W. Snyder, 49-year-old banker from Arkansas and Missouri, will be the new "Assistant President"—boss of the vast home front in an era of change.

President Truman reached across an ocean yesterday to nominate his close friend as director of War Mobilization and Reconversion, succeeding Fred M. Vinson. The Senate is expected to approve the nomination promptly, also that of Vinson to be Secretary of the Treasury.

Snyder now is Federal Loan Administrator. Mr. Truman put him in that office just two and a half months ago. There Snyder succeeded the same Vinson, who was Loan Administrator only one month.

Small-town Banker
Under Snyder's leadership, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was streamlined and reorganized for its role in reconversion. Subsidiary corporations were merged into the RFC.

In his new job, Snyder will give orders to government agencies, issue decrees governing civilian participation in the war, and supervise the whole complicated change-back to peace. For example, as RFC head Snyder had the job of selling surplus plants, equipment and aircraft but had to follow policies of the surplus property board. Now he will be directly over the surplus property board. It's a part of his office.

Snyder, a native of Jonesboro, Ark., has been a small-town and big-city banker and an official of the RFC—from 1940 to 1944 in active charge of the defense plant corporation. He is a quiet operator, says little publicly, works hard, gets along with people—and has been a pal of Harry Truman for 25 years.

CAFE SHUTDOWN

Allentown, Pa., (AP)—Twenty-five hotel and restaurant owners in the Lehigh Valley voted yesterday to close their establishments seven days each month.

One proprietor said that lately he has been unable to serve anything for dinner except bacon and eggs. And now, he added ruefully, even the bacon has run out.

SAY UNCLE

By DOROTHY BURGESS AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 20

"Sunshine, who sat in the shadows very unhappy about the whole transaction, perked up as he heard the closing of a door on the second floor. He recognized the footsteps coming down the stairs and with a yelp, bounded up the staircase to meet John.

"Sunshine!" exclaimed John. Realizing that Madge was at home he finished the remaining stairs in leaps and bounds.

"Madge! Madge! where are you?" he called excitedly, but she didn't answer. Through the window he saw her car parked out in front. She must be in the kitchen, he thought, as he tore into the kitchen where he found Magnolia preparing dinner.

"Magnolia! Where's Madge?" he asked, out of breath.

"I don't know, Master John, mah baby done go to town."

"She's home, but I can't find her!" said the panicky John.

Magnolia was furious. "I'll bet mah front gold tooth dat dat Uncle Louie has done took mah baby into de basement."

"Basement!" shouted the horrified John.

Magnolia picked up her rolling pin. "Let me go down into dat basement wid you, Master John, 'cause I sure am in de huntin' spirit!"

"Come along then," said John. On their way through the dining room, Sin Low joined the crusade, and Sunshine, barking, followed. The trio entered the hall and marched toward the basement door. They stopped suddenly when the basement door flew open and Mario, who was Madge in their eyes, called forth.

"Uncle Louie was showing me his laboratory?"

John was so excited that he made the mistake of shaking her.

"Don't you ever go down into the basement again! Do you hear me!" Mario jerked herself angrily from John's grasp. "Don't you talk that way to me, just because you don't like Uncle Louie!"

John stared at her. Then he remembered the doctor's warning about arguing with Madge or ridiculing her notions, and realizing he must play along with her, changed his attitude.

"I'm sorry, dear," he said apologetically.

"You should be!" said Mario, who was still angry. "And what's more, put his portrait back where it belongs!"

"Must I?" asked John weakly.

"And right now!" she demanded. "He's got just as much right to hang up there as those horse thieves and cradle snatchers!"

John had to force himself to say, "You're right, dear."

Then Mario noticed the weeping Magnolia and grinning Sin Low.

"What's the matter with the weeping willow and Cheshire cat?"

"Nothing, dear," he stammered. "Magnolia and Sin Low are glad you're here, that's all."

"Well," said Mario, who still remained oblivious to the fact that she was in Madge's body, "that's darn sweet of them."

Harrisburg, July 17 (AP) — Elmer Snyder, 64, of nearby Union Deposit, drowned yesterday when the boat he was rowing across Swatara creek capsized. State police recovered the body with grappling hooks last night.

State College, Pa., July 17 (AP) — Russell C. Pearce, who recently retired from the parcel post department of State College's post office, figures he traveled 20,000 miles in delivering 2,000,000 packages during his 33 years of service.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, July 17 (AP) — First preview glimpses of the post-war home receiver indicated that in general it will look much like its predecessor, but with probable price levels higher. However, the engineers say that expected improvements should result in a compensating better job.

One company (Emerson), anticipating the day when the industry can get back into civilian production, hoped for in the fall or thereabouts, already has prepared four samples of the smaller type of sets for standard broadcast reception. They include a portable, a "pocket" set, a table model and a phonograph combination, also table type.

While the price range still is to be determined, it is expected to be within $25 to $85, which represents somewhat of an increase over post-war days for such receivers.

SIGN NEW PLAYER

Ray Curtis, released by Albany's Eastern league Senators Sunday and promptly signed by Wilkes-Barre, had the laugh on his former teammates today.

Curtis, with a brace of singles, pounded in three runs in the eighth-inning opener of the Albany-Wilkes-Barre twin bill last night to give the Barons a 6-5 victory and shove the Senators back to fourth place in the league standings.

Albany bounced back to win the nightcap 4-3. Hartford won two from Scranton 3-1, 8-2, to displace Wilkes-Barre as the league leader. Utica handed Williamsport a pair of shutouts, winning by 2-0 and 1-0 scores. Binghamton edged Elmira 3-2.

Zivic Ready To Retire From Ring

New Orleans July 17 (AP) — Former welterweight champion Fritz Zivic, Pittsburgh, Pa., veteran of 15 years of ring warfare, was ready to retire again today.

His feeble showing in losing a 10-round decision to "Wild" Bill McDowell of Dallas, Tex., here last night, caused him to comment: "This is the end for sure. I whipped that guy easy a few months ago, but look at me now."

Zivic had announced only yesterday that he had "postwar" plans to establish himself again as a world champion. But he failed to land a solid blow during the ten rounds. McDowell was little better but he managed to pile up an advantage of about eight rounds to one, with

BROWNIES TAKE 2 FROM NATS; MACKMEN SPLIT

By JACK HAND
(AP Sports Writer)

Time is beginning to run out on the "Cinderella men" from St. Louis in their quest of a second American league flag but Lake Sewell's St. Louis Browns are determined to make things tough on any would-be successors.

Washington, which was making menacing sounds toward the first place Detroit Tigers, was somewhat subdued when the Browns hit town last night and clubbed the Nats twice.

Al Hollingsworth and Tex Shirley, a couple of "has beens" according to the won and lost records, took turns humbling Ossie Bluege's up-and-coming gang that swept through the west at pell-mell speed to return home a pennant contender.

Even the Browns in sixth place, 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ games off the pace, still are factors in the wide open club scramble that gives every club in the circuit, except the Philadelphia A's, at least a hope and prayer of making the grade.

26,120 Attend

The Browns really spoiled the evening for a turnout of 26,120 spectators, largest Washington week night crowd of the season, when they beat Johnny Niggeling in the opener, 7-3, and defeated Roger Wolf in the finale, 5-1.

Washington fell three full games behind the leaders because Detroit emerged from its slumber and whacked the Yankees, 9-4. Stubby Overmire tamed New York for the Tigers' first triumph of their second eastern invasion but he had some bad moments in the eighth inning. Red Ruffing, making his first appearance since the 1942 World Series, got a pinch single to bring in the first run in a rally that netted four scores.

The man who couldn't win and the fellow who couldn't lose seem to have reversed position in Philadelphia. Bobo Newsom, who lost 12 before entering the win column, earned his second straight decision, 7-1, on a two-hitter against Chicago. In the early game Russ Christopher, the A's bell cow, was belted off the hill and handed his fourth successive beating, 6-2.

Cleveland put the damper on Boston, 3-2, just when the Red Sox were in a position to slide into third place and a virtual tie for second. Rookie Randy Hefflin pitched good enough ball but Pat Seery's two-run homer in the sixth sealed his doom.

Cubs, Cards Win

Chicago maintained its four-game advantage in the National by coming from behind in the last of the ninth with two runs and a 4-3 shade over New York's Van Mungo. Paul Gillespie's single was the telling blow, giving Reliever Ray Starr his first success in a Chicago uniform.

St. Louis clung to second by shutting out the Braves, 2-0, behind Harry Brecheen. Sore arm or no, Brecheen tossed his first complete game since May 2 and effectively silenced the Boston jinx.

Tom Seals, of Brooklyn, another pitcher who hadn't gone the route since May 11, lasted all the way to defeat Pittsburgh, 8-4. Xavier Rescigno, middleman of three Pirate tossers, was charged with the loss.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, July 17 (AP)—John Mooney, Salt Lake City Telegram sports editor and Utah semi-pro baseball commissioner, tells about this incident in the recent state tournament . . . Mooney, who wins (and quite a sizable wine, too) every time a foul ball goes over the fence reports that one cleared the grandstand where a policeman was watching . . . The ball bounced toward a taxi; the caddy jumped out, grabbed the ball and raced away in his hack . . . The outraged cop took after him in a squad car and after several blocks pursuit, he caught up and made the caddy fork over . . . Then he returned, had Commissioner Mooney paged, told him the story and returned the virtually new ball . . . Mooney, touched by the tale, asked John Law if he had any kids and when the copper mentioned four, Mooney said: "Here take the ball. You deserve it."

SHORT AND SWEET

The present campaign, says Eddie Travis of the Newport News, Va., Times-Herald, should not be allowed to pass without mention of Ervin Palica's one-pitch victory for the Newport News Dodgers . . . The Lomita, Calif., lad came into a recent game with Norfolk with the score tied and two out in the ninth . . . The next Norfolk batter popped up on the first pitch so Palica was the pitcher officially in the game when the Dodgers won out in their half of the ninth.

SKY'S THE LIMIT

For two years, the Middletown club in the Ohio State league has been known as the "Middies" and last year it finished in the middle of the standing . . . Recently the club directors changed the nickname to "Rockets." . . . The players took the hint and Middletown rocketed from second place into a comfortable lead over the Springfield Giants . . . "Now," adds Lee Addington, the National Association publicist, "Manager Ivy Griffin is faced with the task of proving that the same Rockets which shoot up can defy the laws of gravity and stay up."

YORK BLANKS ALLENTOWN

(By The Associated Press)

The lowly York White Roses took the Interstate league limelight last night by breaking up a scoreless tie with 11 runs in the seventh inning to down Allentown, 11-0.

Wilmington's Blue Rocks gained a half game on Lancaster by twice thumping Trenton, 12-5 and 7-3. Lancaster defeated Hagerstown, 7-3.

York's Stan McMurray and Allentown's McCord hooked up in a tight mound duel for six innings, but the Roses put together four hits, four walks, a hit batsman, an error and a walk to pile up their seventh inning total. McMurray gave up three hits in the first inning, but held the Redbirds to one safety the rest of the way.

Rookie Bob Chakales, 17-year-old Richmond, Va., Phillies' recruit, won his second victory for the Blue Rocks in the first of two as his teammates pounded out 11 hits behind him. The Rocks scored consistently in the nightcap, tallying in six of the eight innings they came to bat.
